

2022 Report for the New Zealand Openness Agreement

Percentage of the 27 signatories who have demonstrated the Commitments of the Agreement

	Providing public information	Providing information within the organisation to researchers, staff or students	Providing information about the application of the Three Rs to the media and the public	Signatories that have provided a statement about their position on animal testing on their website	Have policies and guidelines relating to the mention of animals used in research	Staff training to deliver public engagement events about animal research and teaching
Research and/or teaching organisations	86%	67%	57%	100%	14%	52%
Non-research and/or teaching organisations	83%	33%	33%	100%		50%

Enhancing communications with tangata whenua	Incorporation of tikanga Māori approaches to work	Providing opportunities for public engagement	Access to animal facilities
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> consultation with whānau, hapū and iwi training iwi members to help with research projects presenting results at hapū hui 	33%	43% 50%	29%

Underpinning these Openness Commitments is the overall commitment to the Three Rs

- Replacement of animals with valid alternatives,
- Reduction in the number of animals used,
- Refinement of techniques used in order to minimise suffering and harm to animals